Benefits to your organization

In today's economy it is difficult for many organizations to obtain quality services at competitive prices. You do not have to sacrifice quality, let an experienced writer assist you with your organization's writing needs. Write Now specializes in grant proposal writing, report writing, newsletter articles, and creation of manuals and job aids. Contact Write Now to schedule a consultation with a writer to discuss your organization's needs.

Qualifications

Shakela Watkins, owner of Write Now, has a Master of Arts in English, and experience creating and editing various documents. She has revised training manuals for a local university and written several continuation applications, year end reports, and grant proposals for a local nonprofit organization. Her experience includes five years in the nonprofit sector, along with more than six years of experience in the health care field, and ten years experience as a live environment trainer.

Services

Write Now aims to provide quality:

- Grant proposals Increase your potential funding options by seeking out diverse funding sources that are in line with your organization's services.
 - Reports Provide members of your organization, board, and potential clients with yearly outcomes and initiatives.
 - Organizational and Training Manuals Ensure staff are trained and aware of all essential duties associated with your organization.
 - Newsletters Reach potential clients and other organizations that may be interested in what you do. An excellent way to keep employees, community members, and potential investors informed.
